

CORRIDOR H OVERVIEW

Purpose and Need for Appalachian Corridor H: To improve east-west transportation, to promote economic development in the region, and to preserve or improve the quality of life in the region.

Timeline:

- 1990-1996: Environmental & engineering studies for Corridor H between Elkins, WV & Virginia were completed, & an alignment was approved.
- 1996-2000: Legal challenges resulted in a court settlement which divided the alignment into nine operationally independent projects that could be constructed separately as funding became available.
- 2003: An Amended Record of Decision ("AROD") was issued for the Wardensville to Virginia State Line Project.*
- 2001-2008: Distribution of $1 million to Town of Wardensville as mitigation for proposed impacts
- 2018-Present: A Public Meeting was held in 2018. Field work & agency coordination have been ongoing to re-evaluate the 2003 AROD.
